MONTAUK EXHIBITS AT TRAVEL SHOW

Montauk Chamber executive director Laraine Creegan, and travel business members exhibited Montauk’s visitor attractions at the New York Times Travel Show on the January 25th weekend. It was a cooperative program with New York State’s I Love NY and Discover Long Island, held at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center in New York.

“Tourism is Montauk’s number one industry,” according to Creegan. “Travel enhances the hamlet economically and socially. Furthermore, how many of us came out as visitors, loved it and bought second homes?” she mused, relating travel to the real estate industry, Montauk’s second largest economy.

The Chamber and tourism entities offered a raffle for two Montauk trips including hotel room, dinners, Hampton Jitney and attractions’ tickets.
